AN ITALIAN JURY OF ARCHITECTS AWARD 132 BUILDINGS AND URBAN PLANNING PROJECTS FROM OVER 40 NATIONS TO DEFINE A NEW GLOBAL DESIGN AESTHETIC FOR 2016

Announcing the World's Prestigious 2016 International Architecture Awards to be Exhibited in Istanbul, Turkey preceding the Istanbul Design Biennial September 2-30, 2016

VENICE, ITALY (July 10, 2016) — The Chicago Athenaeum: Museum of Architecture and Design and The European Centre for Architecture Art Design and Urban Studies have awarded over 130 new buildings, commercial and institutional developments, landscape architecture, and urban planning projects from 43 nations for The International Architecture Awards for 2016.

Hundreds of submissions were received for this year's annual Global Awards Program from architecture firms from across Europe, Asia, the Middle East, Australia, and the Americas—each hoping to pick up a coveted International Architecture Award.

A final shortlist of 370 projects was presented to a Jury of Italian architects and critics.

The newest projects by Adrian Smith + Gordon Gill Architecture, Zaha Hadid Architects, Skidmore, Owings & Merrill LLP., Kohn Pedersen Fox, Foster + Partners, AECOM, C.F. Møller Architects, HASSELL, Pei Cobb Freed & Partners Architects LLP., Morphosis Architects, HOK, SPEECH architectural office, Toyo Ito & Associates, Vo Trong Nghia Architects, Haworth Tompkins, Edward Suzuki Associates, Richard Meier and Partners, Rafael de La-Hoz Arquitectos, Pininfarina, Carlos Zapata Studio, Christian de Portzamparc, Safdie Architects, Antoine Predock Architect PC., and other leading world practices were among those shortlisted for the 2016 International Architecture Awards.

The International Architecture Awards are the largest and most extensive global architecture awards program in the world, honoring new skyscrapers, commercial buildings, urban plans, private residences, and real estate projects that achieve a high standard of excellence in design, construction, planning, and sustainability and promote the best practice in all types of real estate development for the private and public sectors, including new skyscrapers, high rises, corporate and institutional buildings, commercial projects, bridges, airports, city planning, restorations and adaptive reuse, community projects, religious and civic buildings, and interiors.

This year's selected buildings are from 43 nations including: Angola, Argentina, Australia, Austria, Canada, China, Columbia, Czech Republic, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Hong Kong, India, Iran, Ireland, Israel, Italy, Japan, Jordan, Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, Latvia, Lebanon, Malta, Malaysia, México, Morocco, The Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Republic of Singapore, Russia, Serbia, Slovenia, Spain, South Korea, Sweden, Switzerland, Thailand, Turkey, Vietnam, United Kingdom, and The United States.

"The selected new buildings and urban planning projects in this year's edition of The International Architecture Awards demonstrate a new and growing sensitivity to true human-based design and a sympathetic approach to sustainability and the environment," states Christian Narkiewicz-Laine, Museum President, The Chicago Athenaeum.

"Like Alejandro Aravena's theme of the 15th Venice Architecture Biennale, 'Reporting from the Front,' this year's awarded projects address critical architecture and planning concerns for advanced post-industrial cities and Third World communities alike, in a way to imagine the possibilities for the future restoration and renovation of deteriorating downtown cores, depressed neighborhoods, and humanistic alternatives for derelict neighborhoods. Unlike the previous decades of modernism, this is a new, sensitive humanistic approach to present and future urban development--from mega projects to the design for public housing and community services projects."

"The best of today's architecture," Mr. Narkiewicz-Laine continues, "demonstrates a new International Style that has little to nothing to do with architectural 'style,' but more a genuine concern for the society that architecture serves. Unlike the 'International Style' of modernism, today's International Architecture considers much broader issues: pedagogic requirements, topographical conditions, climatic-sensitive design, the size and needs of real communities, multiculturalism, genuine respect for the cultural concerns of city and world inhabitants, the respect for the world's limited resources, and an advanced thinking toward a real Green Design and ecological sustainability."

"These are the critical issues that megacities and developing societies alike face today --from urban slums, denatured megacities, conflict zones, environmentally compromised ports, and rural villages far off the grid."

2016 INTERNATIONAL ARCHITECTURE AWARDS
Add Two

“The best of today’s architecture addresses the harnessing of simple materials, structural ingenuity and unskilled labor to bring architecture to underserved communities in a simple, low-cost, low-impact, and often beautiful way.”

“These projects awarded by the Italian jury speak about invigorated cities and city centers, the creation of domestic environments and public spaces that restore dignity to a population while offering universal space for the balanced encounter between two apparently irreconcilable worlds. These projects are at the frontline and have worldwide implications that challenge us in the way we see our world,” Narkiewicz-Laine concludes.

The 2016 Jury was held in Milan during the Venice Architecture Biennale and consisted of the following architects and architecture journalists and critics:

- Cinzia Anguissola Scacchetti, Architect - Milan, Italy
- Claudia Donà, Design Critic and Journalist, Milan, Italy
